VIETNAM KNOW MORE

Motorbike

An official transport in Vietnam is MOTORBIKE. There are about 40 million motos for a population of 90 million people. And prepare yourself to see almost everything on them: 1, 2, 3, 4 or 5 people at the same time, children, dogs, cages, refrigerators, bags, ... They can carry everything on only one motor.

And to cross the street, the motto is KEEP GOING! just go!

They will deviate from you !

Vietnamese hat

One of the most typical scenes of Vietnam is the Vietnamese hats. Every Vietnamese person uses it, either on the streets or in parks. They use it to protect themselves from the sun

Is impossible to go to Vietnam and come back without its traditional hat.

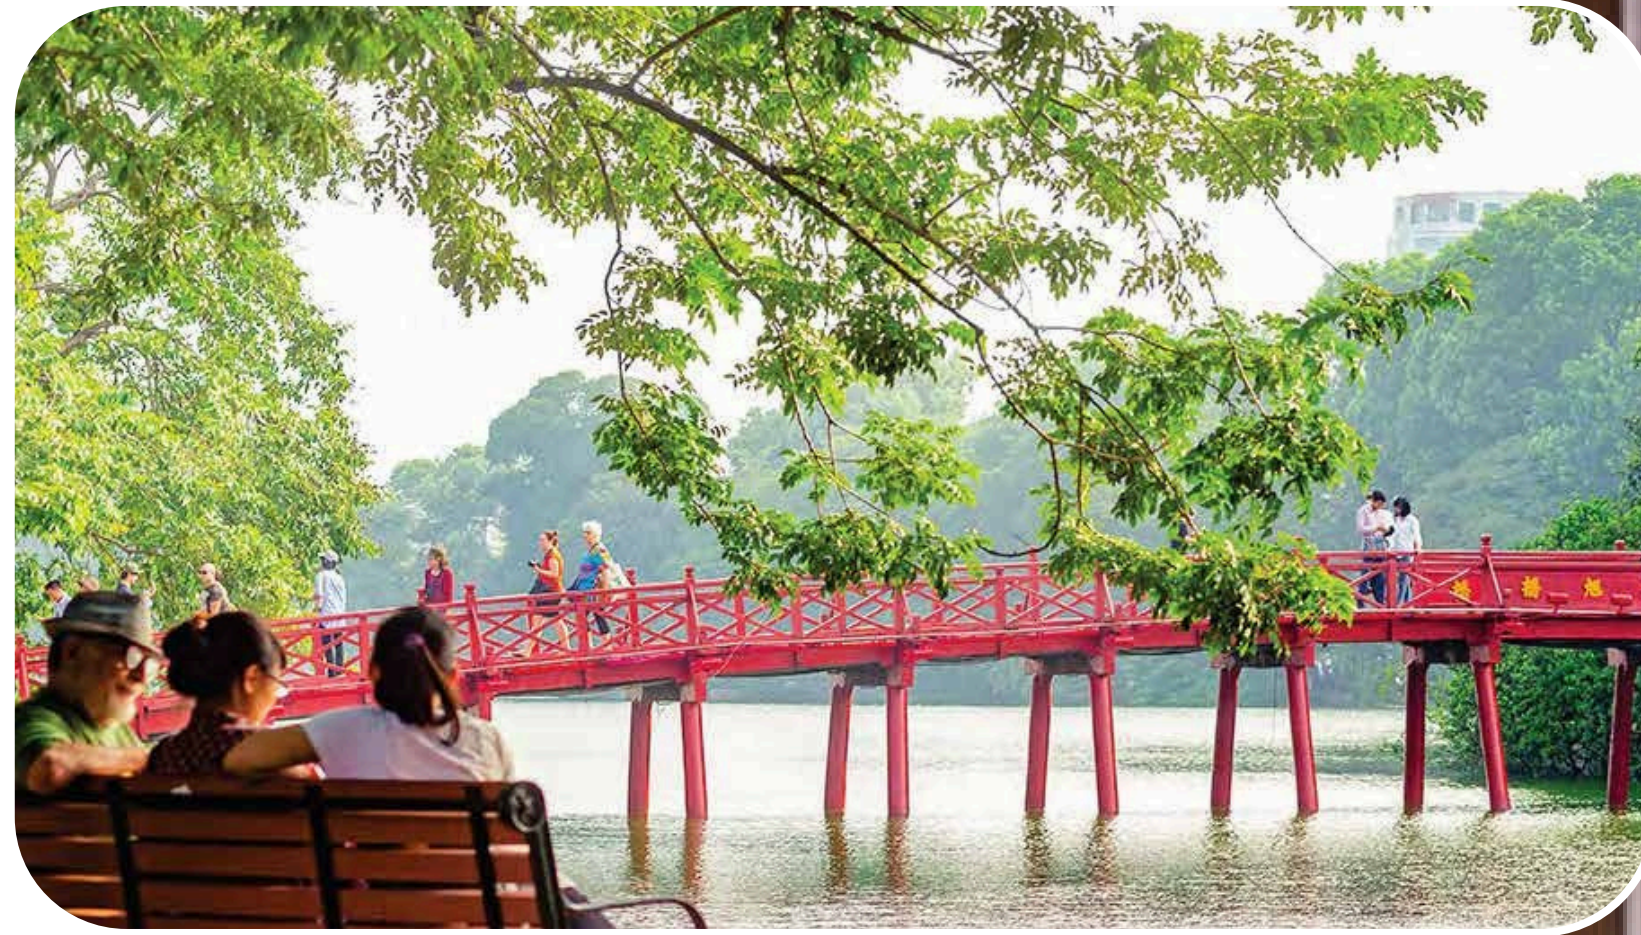

Vietnamese traditional dress

The traditional Vietnamese dress for women, "áo dài", consists of a long robe (glued to the body) over pantalona style pants.

The specialty of the "áo dài" is that it is a tight-fitting dress which magnifies the beautiful curves of a woman's body. The slits on both sides up to the waist create a charming and unique cut that is classically flattering. Today, designers have created many new styles of 'áo dài', diversifying this costume.

HANOI – THE CAPITAL CITY

Hanoi is the capital city and the second largest city in Vietnam (only after Ho Chi Minh city). Hanoi is situated in the North of Vietnam with the population of 7 million people. The vibrant Vietnamese capital exudes a French air in its colonial facades and preserved historic buildings.

Hanoi is a great starting point to start the Vietnam experience!

WHERE TO VISIT IN HANOI?

Ho Chi Minh Mausoleum: the place where much of Vietnam's history is shown. It was built to house the embalmed remains of the famous and dear president, considered a hero for fighting for the liberation of the Vietnamese people

One Pillar Pagoda: A small and interesting Buddhist pagoda with a form of lotus flower that was built in 1049. It's a very sacred place for Buddhists.

Hoan Kiem Lake: A lake that is located in the center of the city, a great place to take a walk and admire the Vietnamese culture.

Old Quarter: It is formed by 36 streets, which form a true maze. It is worth exploring this part of the city without haste because in each alley you will discover something very original of the city. Aurora Travel organizes a cyclo ride through the Old Quarter.

HOW TO EXPERIENCE HANOI?

- Try the famous Egg Coffee in a typical Vietnamese place like a local
- Wander around the Old Quarter in cyclo
- Relax your body and your mind with an incredible traditional massage in 120 minutes
- Explore the street food culture with Vespa Tour
- Watch the Water puppet show

WHERE TO STAY IN HANOI?

Without doubts, the best place to stay in Hanoi is the Old Quarter, near the Hoan Kiem lake. It's a place where everything happens and the most beautiful place to walk, eat and admire the capital city. • Hotel De L'Opera, MGallery • Pan Pacific hotel • Sofitel Legend Metropole, or the oldest hotel and the best hotel in Hanoi. Famous people and presidents stay there in their visits to Vietnam. It's a classic of Vietnam.

HO CHI MINH CITY

Ho Chi Minh City is located in the South of Vietnam. Being considered the largest city of the country (with approx. 8 million people), it's the financial centre of Vietnam, very cosmopolitan, bustling and most westernized city of Vietnam. Before officialy named Ho Chi Minh City, the city was once called Saigon. the name was changed in 1976 in tribute to the grand leader and hero of Vietnam: Ho Chi Minh, who is considered largely respon- sible for Vietnam becoming independent from France. Ho Chi Minh City is full of tall buildings, boulevards, design stores, ex- celent restaurants, bars and many interesting attractions to explore!

WHERE TO VISIT IN HOCHIMINH CITY?

Reunification Palace

Formerly known as Independence Palace, has always stayed in the mind of many generations of not only Vietnamese people but also foreigners. It is known as the famous historical witness which passed through the two fierce wars against the French and American colonists. As Vietnam was split into North Vietnam and South Vietnam, the building served as presidential home and workplace. Today, the palace is remembered vividly as a marked end to the war.

War remnants museum

One of the main places to visit in Ho Chi Minh city. This museum was inaugurated in 1975. The brutality of the conflict between United States and Vietnam is shown in detail there.

Notre Dame Cathedral

This Catholic church was constructed in 1877 by the French (with materials imported from France).

WHERE TO VISIT IN HOCHIMINH CITY?

Cu Chi Tunnels

Perhaps one of the most remarkable attractions. It's a fantastic place where the creativity of the Vietnamese people is shown. Cu Chi is a district located around 40km from Ho Chi Minh City (1h30' by car). There are more than 240km of underground tunnels which reach up to 20m deep and could house thousands of people for many months.

Opera House

One of the landmarks of the city, the Opera House was designed by a French architect, Eugene Ferret in 1897. From 1955 to 1897 it was used as the Assembly of the Government of the South of Vietnam, and later it became a theater.

Post Office

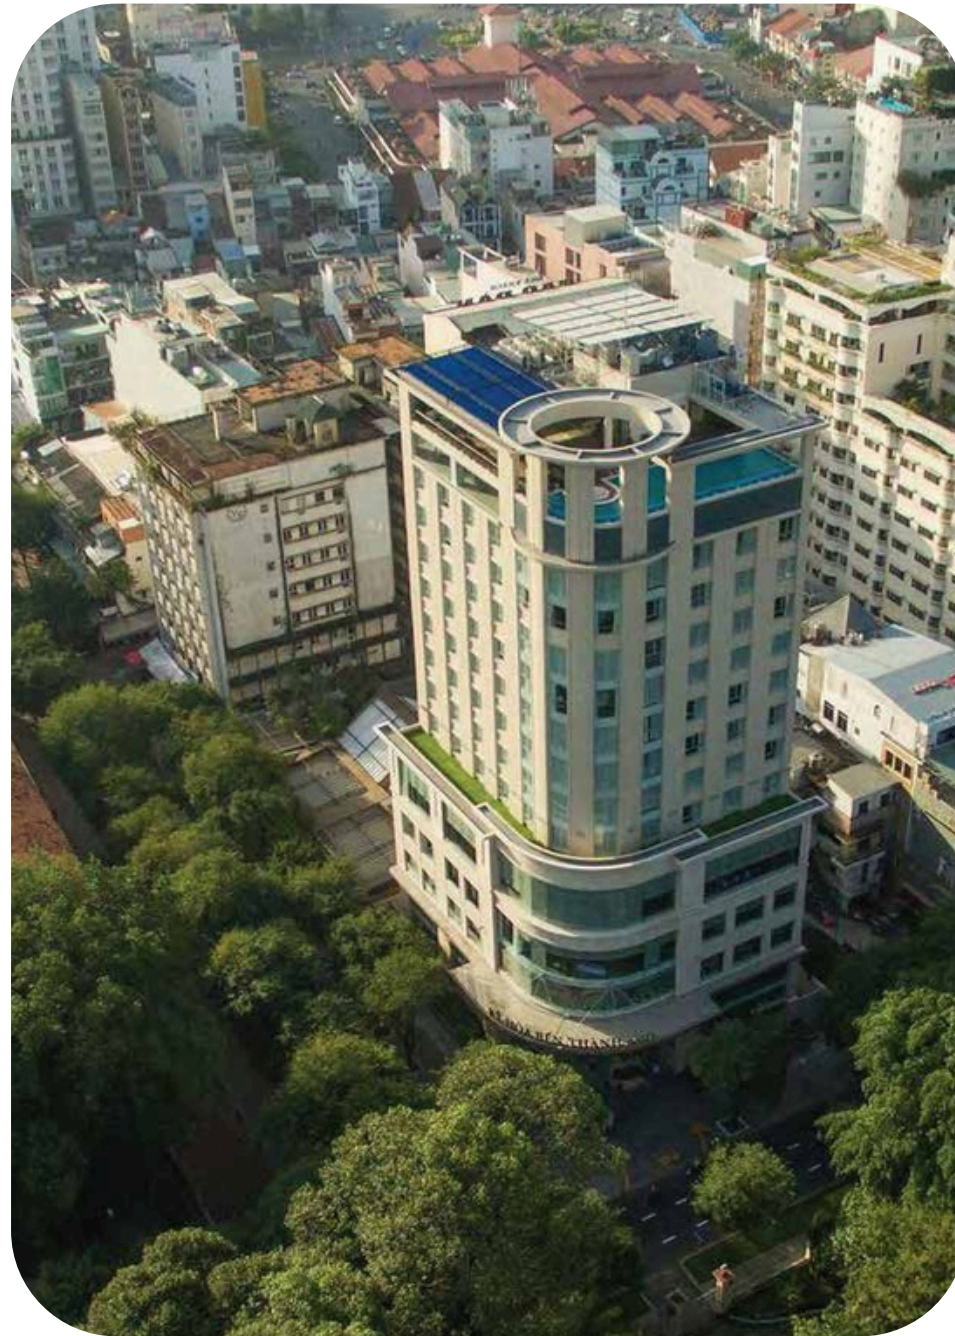

This building was designed by the famous French architect / engineer Gustave Eiffel) and was constructed in 1886

CAMBODIA HISTORY OF CAMBODIA

Through the smile of the Cambodian people, many people do not know the sad history of the country in the Khmer Rouge time (happened in the middle of the 20th century, between 1975 and 1979).

Cambodia was a French colony from 1863 to 1953. When the invasion was over, the new government of Cambodia wanted to create a country from scratch, eliminating everything that existed before. Because of that, so came the execution program (Khmer Rouge) that killed everyone who had any kinds of connection with the previous government. After that, people were killed for even more trivial reasons, for example, intellectual people.

The Khmer Rouge lasted until 1979, when it was eliminated by Vietnam. The number of victims is not exact. Some studies estimate around 3 million death, while others 1,5 million,... Whatever the number is, this is the largest massacre that has existed in proportion to the population of a country.

The constitutional monarchy was restored only in 1993. Now the King is Norodom Sihamoni and the Prime Minister is Hun Sen.

KNOW MORE

To open the door to a new world. Only with a receptive mind and refined senses, we are able to absorb the smells, colors, flavors and gestures that bombard us with each step.

To burn the tongue in very spicy recipes, it is to experience the true exotic cuisine, where the sweet, the salty, the spicy, the sour, all in a single dish is mixed. It is learning in the first days to say spicy in Thai (maiphet)

To be enchanted by monks walking quietly through the streets with their colorful clothes and learn that any Buddhist man can be a monk for as long as he determines (1 week, 1 month, 1 year ...)

To learn to express your gratitude in a simple wai (Sawadee Kha or Kopokhun kha) by tilting the head that replaces physical contact.

To live in emotions that never be explored before. It's about learning the new, unlike what we are used to living in our western culture. Witnessing with your own eyes that Thailand is really an impressive and exotic country.
